

Press Release

COMPAIR PRIME flow® is the winner of the German Design Award 2024

The air duct system from Naber convinced the jury of the internationally acclaimed design award with its numerous innovations.

Airtight with just one click, flexible and extremely efficient as standard: since its launch, COMPAIR PRIME flow® has been the global benchmark for air duct systems for extractor hoods. The numerous creative and functional innovations have now also impressed the high-ranking selection committee of the premium prize. As the "Winner" in the category "Excellent Product Design – Kitchen", the jury praised Naber's proprietary development as an "outstanding and exemplary design achievement".

Flexible and secure installation

Alongside its superb aerodynamics with minimal flow losses, COMPAIR PRIME flow® is also distinguished by its very simple installation. Snap-on elements connect the moulded parts and duct components audibly with each other, double lip seals provide airtightness – the error-prone sealing of joints with adhesive tape is a thing of the past. The integrated flex zones of the universal connectors are unique. They make it possible to simply adjust the duct routing individually by hand by 15 degrees in each direction.

Presented since 2012, the German Design Award is the premium prize of the German Design Council. With its global reach and international appeal, it is one of the most respected awards in the design landscape spanning all sectors.
